HEARING IN BERTHANNA R. SMITH ESTATE IS HEARD IN FAYETTE COUNTY COURTS.

Alleged Heirs of the Deceased Institute Proceedings to Oust H. M. Kephart as Administrator.

CONTEST OVER MORTON WILL

Will Likely Result and Conference is Held With Register & Recorder
Rush—Will of Mary L. Gween Filed for Probate—Other Court Notes.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 9.—The hearing in the proceedings for the removal of H. M. Kephart as administrator of the estate of the late Berthanna R. Smith of Connellsville was commenced this morning. The petitioners for Kephart's removal are Berthanna Nelms of Uniontown and Anna Lamar, Kate Nixon and Lewis Meisler of Mt. Pleasant. The entire case hangs on the establishment of a relationship between the late Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Meisler, mother of the three petitioners. Attorneys Robinson & McKean are looking after the interests of the three petitioners. Attorneys Robinson & McKean are looking after the interests of the three claimants, while Kephart is represented by Attorneys E. C. Higbee, W. H. Brown, D. M. Hertzog and W. E. Crow.

Bernard Welker was the principal witness in the case this morning. He testified to the fact that he knew Mrs. Meisler in Westphalia, Bavaria. Welker came to this country in 1862, while the girl who married the late Lewis Nixon, in company with several others, came across in 1855. Welker met them in Washington and the girl said she was looking for an aunt. They later drifted to Connellsville. Welker then testified that he had frequently seen Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Meisler together, and that she called Mrs. Smith "aunt." Her children also called her "aunt," the Meislers paying frequent visits to Mrs. Smith. It is likely that the contest will be made over the settlement of the estate of Mrs. Amanda Morton, late of Connellsville. Two wills have been discovered, each carrying contrary instructions. Both sides were represented in a consultation with Register and Recorder Logan Rush here Tuesday and indications are that a bitter legal battle will be fought. The second will was discovered after the first had been probated.

The will of Mary L. Gween of Franklin township was admitted to probate this morning. Attorney H. L. Frasher is named as executor. He is directed to sell most of the property, to be deposited with the Citizens' Title & Trust Company of Uniontown. The proceeds of this money is to be paid to the trustees of the Pleasant View Cumberland Presbyterian church for use in paying the pastor and keeping the property in good condition.

The court this morning directed that George White be released from jail. He was locked up on November 23, being unable to pay his wife $2 and costs, the result of a suit for desertion and non-support. His wife has since died and the children are being taken care of by the Children's Aid Society.

Attorney Frank P. Rush has been appointed master in the divorce proceedings of Mary V. Swift against Lewis B. Swift.

Attorney L. B. Brownfield has filed his report as master, recommending that a divorce be granted Roxie M. Johns of Lisleburg from her husband, Charles W. Johns, who is believed to be in Harrisburg. They were married December 24, 1898, in Cumberland and lived in Dawson until he deserted her in November, 1901.

Thomas W. Baxter, proprietor of a restaurant in Connellsville, is defendant in an action in trespass to recover $1,000 damages which was filed by Attorneys Sterling, Higbee, Dumbaud & Brown, on behalf of Joseph Silverburg. In front of the entrance to the restaurant is a trap door leading to the basement. On May 9, 1906, Silverburg was in the restaurant and when he went out fell over the trap door which had been temporarily left open. He sets forth in his papers that he was badly injured and as a consequence was off duty some weeks. It is charged that Baxter was negligent in allowing the doors to remain open in such a public place.

Z. T. Leighty of Dunbar township was authorized by the court to sell certain real estate of the minors of the late George W. Edwards, of Vandeventer, and of whom Leighty was appointed guardian. He thinks the several properties to which they are heirs should be sold at this time.

Alan D. Williams was appointed guardian of Edna Rhinehart of South Union township. Bond required.

The Fayette Title & Trust Company was authorized to sell the property of the late John Sparks, of Salford township, of whose children it is the guardian.

WILL BRING SUIT.

Squire and Constable Have Monetary Dispute with County Commissioners and Will Go to Law.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 9.—Squire M. B. Clifford of South Union township, within a few days, enter suit against the County Commissioners for damages. He claims that they have circulated the report that he is not entitled to do business, and have harmed him financially. Clifford was elected to office while residing at Continental No. 1, but later moved to the extension of Grant street, just outside of Uniontown. Petitions were out for the annexation of this extension, but the final papers have not been acted upon. Clifford claims that he is still in South Union township, but the Commissioners disagree. They have also refused him costs on this account. He alleges that they are not giving him a square deal.

The Squire is also authority for the statement that a certain constable, whose name he refuses to divulge at present, also intends to sue the Commissioners. This officer has arrested several parties for violating the game laws, and claims he is entitled to half the fine and $10 besides. This is the law, he says. He also says that the Commissioners admit that this is the law, but they do not intend to pay the bill. Both cases will be watched with interest.

A large number of bills were presented and ordered paid and still a little cash left to meet obligations.

FALSE REPORT

Had Harvey Harbaugh, Well Known B. & O. Engineer, Killed at Cumberland. Very Much Alive.

The report that Harvey Harbaugh, a well known young engineer on the Connellsville Division of the Baltimore & Ohio, was killed under his engine at Cumberland yesterday, was without foundation. The rumor came from Cumberland and was current among Harbaugh's friends up until noon. It came to The Courier late and was used in the first edition. Later in the day investigation proved that the report was not true. Harbaugh is at a loss to understand how the report gained circulation. ACTION BROUGHT IN ST. LOUIS.

Litigation Between Uniontown Man and Railroad Magnates Will Be Hard Fought—Fulton Received Nearly $300,000 for Coal and Railroads.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—George J. Gould, Joseph Ramsey, Jr., and Senator Stephen B. Elkins are among the defendants named in a suit filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by E. D. Fulton of Uniontown, Pa., as a result of an $8,000,000 deal by the Little Kanawha syndicate in West Virginia coal lands and in two small railroads. Fulton names the St. Louis Union Trust Company, George J. Gould, Wm. E. Guy, Joseph Ramsey, Jr., John S. Jones, Henry G. Davis and Stephen B. Elkins, as defendants and asks the full membership of the syndicate be disclosed. Fulton underwrote the syndicate when it was formed, December 2, 1902, by Ramsey, Gould and Guy, and is known as the Little Kanawha syndicate. Elkins, Jones and other capitalists were included.

The purpose of the corporation was to acquire the Little Kanawha railroad, extending 60 miles up the Little Kanawha river, from Parkersburg, W. Va., and to extend eastwardly; to build a railroad from Parkersburg to Zanesville, O.; to purchase West Virginia coal lands; and later to purchase the capital stock of the Buckhannon & Northern Railroad Company, owner of a road from the Pennsylvania State line through West Virginia to Buckhannon, W. Va.

The petition says the members of the syndicate agreed to spend $8,000,000 on these projects, and that when money was needed the members were to be liable in proportion to their subscription to the stock of the syndicate. Calls were issued for 75 per cent of the $8,000,000. It is stated, and payments were made to the St. Louis Trust Company.

Fulton and J. T. Blair of Greenville, Pa., it is said in the petition, sold the syndicate an option October 7, 1901, on the Little Kanawha railroad for $1 and other considerations. One of the other considerations, Fulton says, was an agreement on the part of the syndicate to buy between 40,000 and 50,000 acres of West Virginia coal lands from Fulton at an average price of $20 an acre. Fulton claims he bought options on 17,246 acres, under this agreement, for which he should have received $344,920, and delivered the deeds to the trust company in St. Louis. The syndicate paid him $297,133, but he charges that the remaining $47,787 is still unpaid.

In buying the coal lands, the petitioner says, it was the agreement that the syndicate should make its payments so as to enable him to meet calls on $100,000 capital stock he took in the syndicate. He did pay two calls, amounting to $20,000, but was unable to make any payments after that, because, he charges, the syndicate did not settle. Half the capital stock of the Buckhannon & Northern railroad was sold by Fulton and Blair, the former says, to the syndicate for $150,000. This has never been paid, he avers, and further says Blair has assigned to him his, Blair's, share in the claim.

AFTER DELINQUENTS.

Vanderbilt School Board Will Insist on Them Paying Their Taxes.

The Vanderbilt School Board held its regular session Monday evening at the Hotel Vanderbilt, with the following directors present: J. B. Henderson, C. B. Arison, H. D. Shullenberger, Burt Newmyer and Dr. G. B. Roberts. The teachers also met with the Board and they were paid their salaries for the month of December. L. V. Strickler, ex-Tax Collector, appeared before the Board and asked to be exonerated on some taxes which remain uncollected, stating that it was almost impossible to get them. These men for whom exonerations were asked are all able-bodied men, but who as a rule spend their money for the things which are not for their own good. The Board thought best not to grant the exonerations, and Mr. Strickler stated that he would collect the taxes if he was compelled to commit them to the county jail.

A January Clearance Sale that will Surpass in Bargain Importance any Previous Sale Ever Held in this House

From January 10 to January 20 will be notable days in this store. We'll be frank with you. We intend to break our highest selling records and to this end we have arranged to offer in every section throughout the house values that will insure a new mark for high record sales. We've used this January sale as a vehicle to accomplish our purpose, as the price reductions we have made would not be considered for one moment in the regular course of business. This January Sale is a bargain event in the broadest sense of the word. Comparative prices given here have been rigorously censored and we've underestimated the value in every instance. Everything you buy will be a better bargain than you read about.

Our suit and coat selling will reach its height during this January clearance when we re-arrange and re-price every garment in our ready-to-wear department for final selling. Only one thing which we wish to forcibly impress upon you is that every garment we present must be absolutely correct and stylish in every particular. We want you to distinctly realize that every item quoted here, regardless of the seemingly low price, must be new, stylish and perfectly constructed.

FULTON'S SUIT.

Elwood Donaldson Fulton was not the biggest end of the Little Kanawha syndicate, but he does not propose to be frozen out of the deal. He is from Fayette county and a native. His suit against Gould and Ramsey, Elkins and Davis, and other men of millions, is not for such a large amount, but it discloses some hitherto unknown facts about some gigantic railway and coal deals in which many Fayette county people were and are substantially concerned. So then the case will be more interesting in its history than its outcome. Its history promises to be thorough. The defense already announces that there is another side to it.

The tale illustrates how easily millions are piled on millions by millions, and how weak and uncertain are the speculations of smaller individuals ignorant of the workings of that vast machinery guided by a few master minds in the financial world. It shows how materially the development of the country is encouraged or retarded by the Titanic struggles of railway magnates. It is such disclosures as these that strengthen the trend of public sentiment aroused by President Roosevelt, looking toward government control of not government ownership of all these great interests. Gigantic trusts in a large measure control the industrial interests of the country. These, are bitterly denounced by people of Socialist tendencies, that is people like the President who want to see wealth more generally distributed among the people; yet here some trusts may eventually become the corner stone of an ideal Socialist fabric. They will either have to be absorbed largely by the people, and especially by their own workmen, or they will some day become so unendurable that the people through the government will take them over bodily.

It is plain that at least some of the trust managers see the situation with discerning eyes and wise understandings. It is the evident policy of these to place their stocks among the people, and especially their own people, to the end that there will be a measure of mutuality in all their efforts. As far as possible, they would make the big corporations big partnerships, so that every man may be rewarded according to his toil and his thrift. The Fulton suit explains many things to the purchasers of coal in West Virginia and Southwest Pennsylvania. It makes it plain why the various railway lines whose construction was confidently announced faded away in the mists of uncertainty and even lapsed into hopeless obscurity. The Community of Interest Army routed them utterly. The public, however, is not without hope. The Army itself is just now on the run, having been driven back by the valiant assaults of the Rough Rider of the White House.

Sharpen's Appetite Improves Digestion

Desires a restorative influence on the whole system, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills have an immediate and direct effect on the organs of digestion.

They stimulate the nerves of taste and induce a good flow of saliva to aid digestion. They excite the glands of the stomach and produce a plentiful supply of the gastric digestive fluids. They sharpen the appetite and arouse hunger.

Especially where appetite and the ability to digest food have diminished, as in nervous exhaustion, anorexia, the result of sickness, overwork or worry, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are by all odds the most effective treatment that can possibly be obtained.

They assure good digestion, regular, healthful action of the liver, kidneys and bowels and the building up and revitalizing of the whole system.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

THE WEATHER.

Western Penna.—A fair or snow and colder Wednesday; Thursday, fair, colder in the South portion; fresh brisk northwest wind.

the Shelves Emptying

We want to convince you that we are in earnest about selling everything possible before stock-taking time comes around, and the best way we know is to ask you to visit the store and take a look at the bargain tubs. We want the room and we want to turn these goods into money and a look at these goods and the prices at which they are marked will do more to convince you that we are in earnest and determined to sell these goods, than anything we can say here. All that we ask you to do here is to take our word that the bargains are worth your while investigating.

Coats and Suits and Furs.

One-fourth off on all of these and if you've a want in any of these we believe you can be suited from this stock. Call special attention to the suits because every one of the 100 full styles, suitable for just the kind of weather we are having now. The next week has seen a brisk selling in this department, and we intend to keep it up until we close out every garment. Every day you put off coming means that many less for you to choose from.

Embroidery Bargains.

We have a table full of these at 15c the yard. Some are worth 15c the yard and some as high as 25c the yard. Insurections to match many of the embroideries included in this lot of bargain embroideries.

Muslin and Underwear Bargains.

A table full of these at one-fourth less than the marked price. If you will take a thought of the present prices of muslin and consider that these are one-fourth less than the old prices you will see what a bargain this means.

Dress Goods and Silk Remnants.

A table full of bargains that makes a trip to this store worth your while. Some of these more than a half less than the original prices of the goods. Some of the Dress Goods remnants have enough in them for a separate skirt; others enough for children's dresses. Some of the Silks have enough for a waist, while others, suitable for trimming, have only a yard of two in them.

Bed Spreads.

White and Colored Spreads that sold for $2.00, $3.00 and $1.00. Some of these have displayed in the window; others slightly soiled in handling, and for that reason you can buy them for one-third less than original prices.

New Rugs.

You will be able to buy room size rugs the reason though perhaps, but chances are that choice patterns are going to be scarce. Manufacturers claim that more rugs have been sold than can possibly be delivered. This is especially true of high grade Body Brussels and Velvets. Most of our rugs for the coming spring season are in stock now. Choice patterns that will not be shown later on. If you want to do your choosing now we will take care of your rug until you are ready for it.

Queen Quality Will be Our Leader

They are the style-makers. The pretty shoes for women that you see nowadays are either "Queen Quality" shoes or copies of them. The women shoe styles of today originate in "Queen Quality."

Some few shoemakers have been clever enough to reproduce shoes that are just as pretty as "Queen Quality," but we've got to see the shoes that do like them.

In this feature above all others that makes several thousand pairs a day necessary to support the demands.

We are sole agents for this make of shoes, which sell for ular Meeting.

SCOTSDALE, Jan. 8.—The big main of the Citizens Water Company burst on North Chestnut street Tuesday evening, a short distance north of Arthur avenue, and tore up a considerable hole in the paved street. The water soon became muddy and people supplied from that particular section were left without water. The residents of that locality have become somewhat accustomed to this as the line at the place where it broke loose has seemingly fallen into a confirmed habit of doing this, as but a few months at a time pass but what the pipe lets go and the street is flooded, paving torn up and the consumers left without water. This plight with the high price of milk at the present time causes a distress good enough for a pictorial representation in a cartoon.

The Scottdale Volunteer Fire Department held their regular monthly meeting at their rooms in the Borough building on Tuesday evening, with President G. W. Sprinkle in the chair and Secretary B. S. Baldwin presenting quite an amount of routine business to be gone through with. There was a good attendance, about 50 of the members being there. After the meeting John G. Darlig, of Miller & Tighe, presented the bunch with a big basket of big apples, which were greatly relished.
Dr. James P. Strickler was a visitor to Greensburg on Tuesday afternoon.
Word has been received here of the death of Joseph T. Sullivan at Butler on Saturday in the 83rd year of his age. He was a former resident here, and a young railroad man. He was married, his wife being a young lady of Glenwood, where he was stationed for some time.

Several lodges of the Order of Independent Americans are planning to charter a West Penn car and make a fraternal visit to the Greensburg lodge on the evening of the 16th, leaving Connellsville at 6.30. The lodges going are O. W. Howe Lodge of Bridgeport, Hemminger's Mill Council of Woodale, Fayette Council of Connellsville and No. 102 of Scottdale.

An even half dozen chickens, leaving four of the flock, is reported to have been the haul made by a chicken thief who fell upon the hen coop of Mrs. McShane, at Chestnut and Market streets, about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The hen coop is a low squat structure and the intruder coop breaker tore off the roof of the fowl's apartment and carried them away. Instead of touting the neighborhood people who heard the hen house raiders telephoned the police, and by the time the latter got there the raider or raiders were gone.

Upon the looks of your shoes will depend greatly your appearance. Nice clothing and poor looking shoes don't go together, and really there is no good reason why you should endure such a combination. We have good looking shoes, good wearing shoes, and good feeling shoes that we can offer you at a price so exceedingly low that you will be surprised to know that we can give so much for so little. If you will come in to look, and compare prices with quality, there is no question of your satisfaction.

THE Masquerader

A few minutes after 10 Loder left Chillico's room, resolutely descended the stairs and took up his position in the hall. Resolution is a strong word to apply to such a proceeding, but something in his bearing, in the attitude of his shoulders and head, instinctively suggested it.

Five or six minutes passed, but he waited without impatience. Then at last the sound of a carriage stopping before the house caused him to lift his head, and at the same instant Eve appeared at the head of the staircase.

She stood there for a second, looking down on him, her mouth a pace or two behind her head. The picture she made struck upon his mind with something of a revelation.

On his first sight of her she had appealed to him as a strange blending of youth and self-possession—a girl with a woman's clearer perception of life. Later he had been drawn to study her in other respects—as a possible comrade and friend. Now for the first time he saw her as a power in her own world—a woman to whom no man could deny consideration. She looked taller for the distance between them, and the distinction of her carriage added to the effect. Her black gown was exquisitely soft—as soft as her black hair. Above her forehead was a cluster of splendid diamonds shaped like a coronet, and a band of the same stones encircled her neck. Loder realized in a glance that only the most distinguished of women could wear such ornaments and not have her beauty eclipsed.

A touch of the old awkwardness that had before assailed him in her presence, he came slowly forward as she descended the stairs.

"Can I help you with your cloak?" he asked, and as he asked it something like surprise at his own timidity crossed his mind.

For a second Eve's glance rested on his face. Her expression was quite impassive, but as she lowered her lashes a faint gleam flickered across her eyes. Nevertheless, her answer, when it came, was stolidly courteous.

"Thank you," she said, "but Mario will do all I want."

Loder looked at her for a moment, then turned aside. He was not hurt by her rebuff. Rather, by an interesting sequence of impressions, he was stirred by it. The pride that had refused Chillico's help, and the self-control that had refused to be moved by admiration. He understood and appreciated both by the light of personal experience.

"The carriage is waiting, sir," Crupham's voice broke in.

Loder nodded, and Eve turned to her maid. "Thank you, Mario," she said. "I shall wait a cup of chocolate when I get back, probably at 11 o'clock." She drew her cloak about her shoulders and moved toward the door. Then she paused and looked back. "Shall we start?" she asked quietly.

Loder, still watching her, came forward at once. "Certainly," he said, with unusual gentleness.

He followed her as she crossed the footpath, but made no further offer of help, and when the moment came he quietly took his place beside her in the carriage. His last impression as the horses wheeled round was of the open hall door—Crupham in his somber livery and the maid in her black dress, both silhouetted against the dark background of the hall; then as the carriage moved forward smoothly and rapidly he leaned back in his seat and closed his eyes.

During the first few moments of the drive there was silence. To Loder there was a strange, new sensation in this companionship, so close and yet so distant. He was so near to Eve that the slight fragrant scent from her clothes might almost have belonged to his own. The impression was confusing, yet vaguely delightful. It was years since he had been so close to a woman of his own class, his own caste. He acknowledged the thought with a curious sense of pleasure. Involuntarily he turned and looked at her.

She was sitting very straight, her fine profile cut clear against the carriage window, her diamonds quivering in the light that flashed by them from the street. For a space the sense of unreality that had pervaded his first entrance into Chillico's life touched him again; then another and more potent feeling rose to quell it. Almost involuntarily as he looked at her his lips parted.

"May I say something?" he asked. Eve remained motionless. She did not turn her head, as most women would have done. "Say anything you like," she said gravely.

"Anything?" He bent a little nearer, filled again by the inordinate wish to dominate.

"Of course."

It seemed to him that her voice sounded forced and a little tired. For a moment he looked through the window at the passing lights; then slowly his gaze returned to her face.

"You look very beautiful tonight," he said. His voice was low and his manner unemotional, but his words had the effect he desired.

She turned her head, and her eyes met his in a glance of curiosity and surprise.

Slight as the triumph was, it thrilled him. The small scene with Chillico's valet came back to him; his own personality moved him again to a reckless determination to make his own voice heard. Leaning forward, he laid his hand lightly on her arm.

"Eve," he said quickly—"Eve, do you remember?" Then he paused and withdrew his hand. The horses had slackened speed, then stopped altogether as the carriage fell into line outside Bramble House.

CHAPTER XIV.

L ODER entered Lady Bramble's feeling far more like an actor in a drama than an ordinary man in a peculiar situation. It was the first time he had played Chillico to a purely social audience and the first time for many years that he had rubbed shoulders with a well-dressed crowd ostensibly brought together for amusement. As he followed Eve along the corridor that led to the reception rooms he questioned the reality of the position again and again; then abruptly, at the moment when the sensation of familiarity was strongest, a cheery voice hailed him, and, turning, he saw the square shoulders, light eyes and pointed mustache of Lokeley, the owner of the St. George's Gazette.

At the sight of the man and the sound of his greeting his doubts and speculations vanished. The essentials of life rose again to the position they had occupied three weeks ago, in the short but strenuous period when his dormant activities had been stirred and he had recognized his true self. He lifted his head unconsciously, the shade of elusiveness that had crossed his forehead passing from him as he smiled at Lokeley with a keen, alert pleasure that altered his whole face.

Eve, looking back, saw the expression. It attracted and held her, like a sudden glimpse into a secret room. In all the years of her marriage, in the months of her courtship even, she had never surprised the look on Chillico's face. The impression came quickly and with it a strange, warm rush of interest that receded slowly, leaving an odd sense of loneliness. But, at the moment that the feeling came and passed, her attention was claimed in another direction. A slight, fair-haired boy forced his way toward her through the press of people that filled the corridor.

"Mrs. Chillico!" he exclaimed. "Can I believe my luck in finding you alone?"

Eve laughed. It seemed that there was relief in her laugh. "How absurd you are, Bobby!" she said kindly. "But you are wrong. My husband is here. I am waiting for him."

Blessington looked around. "Oh!" he said. "Indeed?" Then he relapsed into silence. He was the soul of good nature, but those who knew him best knew that Chillico's summary change of secretaries had rankled. Eve, conscious of the little jar, made haste to smooth it away.

"Tell me about yourself," she said. "What have you been doing?"

Blessington looked at her, then smiled again, his buoyancy restored. "Doing?" he said. "Oh, calling every other afternoon at Grosvenor square, only to find that a certain lady is never at home."

Chatty Letter From the Metropolis of Georges Township.

SMITHFIELD, Jan. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Clay Showalter who have been visiting Mr. Showalter's father, the venerable J. W. Showalter, since Saturday, returned home at Jarvisburg, W. Va., yesterday.

The receipts of the postoffice for the quarter ending December 31 are $735.72.

A heavy downpour of rain accompanied by heavy thunder and vivid flashes of lightning visited this section this morning.

The School Board met in regular session last night, James Leach, O'Neill, Meats and High being present. Principal J. R. House and Janitor Rank were also present. Bills were read and orders granted to the amount of $1410.44, $260.10 of which was in liquidation of the Morgan note and interest thereon paid. The balance was for teachers' salaries, supplies, etc.

The First National Bank elected officers today for the ensuing year. They have declared a dividend for the year of eight per cent. The total earnings amounted to 17 per cent.

The new primary law makes it obligatory on the County Commissioners to furnish ballot boxes for holding the primaries. The intention would be from reading the section referring to this that each voting district would have to be furnished a special box for holding the primary. For the information of all concerned the Commissioners have decided that the boxes used at the preceding election can be used again. The Com. can open them as provided by the general election law, take therefrom the contents and destroy them. This they say, will save an expense of about $1000 to $1500, which amount it would cost to provide new boxes for each voting district.
